GIVE CHAMBER OF COMMERCE A SQUARE DEAL SAYS GREGORY

Survey Now in Progress First Inventory Kingston Has Had in 260 Years, He Says—Have No Right to Make the Survey a Failure and Then Denounce it Because it is a Failure.

Editor Freeman.

Sir:—There has been considerable controversy as to whether the money that the Chamber of Commerce appropriated for the work of industrial survey was justified or not. Naturally some criticism has been caused regarding the matter, but inasmuch as it has been decided to have this work done, there is only one way to find out as to the practicability of this proposition, i. e., for each one receiving questionnaires sent out by the Chamber of Commerce to reply to them promptly. It has to be proven yet whether or not they are fool questions. If they are so, and the result of the survey is not satisfactory, then the objector will be privileged to remark "I told you so." The best way to put the promoters on their mettle and also to receive results would be to meet their requirements as nearly as we are able to.

I have read somewhere that it has been estimated that the average community draws trade from a population outside of the town equal to about 40 per cent of its population. In other words, the buying population of a place equals 140 per cent of its census population. I believe that these surveys are often very useful. The following instance is related: Two men proposed to enter into a partnership in a certain town in Michigan with a population of 7,000 inhabitants. The business in question was already provided for by one store of its kind. To satisfy both partners a survey was made by specialists and it was found that in twenty-four states the average customers in each state for this particular business was 2,200 persons. So for the store which they proposed to establish there was room for three stores instead of one; which proves the usefulness of such a survey. At any rate an inventory of this kind proposed for our city will do no harm, as it will be the first inventory that our community has had made in one hundred and sixty years.

JOHN H. GREGORY

WHO PAYS RENT OF BUS TERMINAL?

In order that bus men and all interested in bus terminals may have a clear understanding of the chamber of commerce part in the terminal situation, Secretary Coe states that the chamber leases from the Kingston Hotel the use of the waiting room and yard, for which a yearly rental of $400 is paid.

For the past two years the chamber has asked the bus operators using the uptown terminal to assume part of this rental and to that end this year billed them at the rate of $1.00 per seat in the various busses. Had all sent in their checks covering these bills the chamber would have received $356.00. In reality all that the chamber has received this year thus far is $174.00 from four owners, leaving four who have not paid.

Under the circumstances the chamber officials think the organization has done its full share toward maintaining the uptown terminal.

CITY HOSPITAL'S CHRISTMAS TREE

Staff of Institution Donated Money for the Tree and Gifts to All There, and Ladies' Auxiliary Furnish the Christmas Decorations.

Christmas Day will be a happy day at the Kingston City Hospital for the physicians of the staff have donated a sum of money to purchase a Christmas tree and all the trimmings and the gifts that will be placed on the tree for the nursing staff, the patients and in fact every one in the institution.

The hospital has been most attractively decorated with Christmas wreaths and holly throughout the wards and building by the members of the Ladies' Auxiliary of the hospital, and those who visited the institution today greatly admired the decorations which are both artistic and beautiful.

FIRST DROWNING OF THE WINTER

Paul Rice, 15 Years Old, While Sliding on the Ice in Rondout Creek With Some Companions Met Death as He Broke Through the Ice Friday Afternoon.

Paul Joseph Rice, the 15 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Maurice H. Rice of No. 22 West Pierpont street met death in the Rondout creek late Friday afternoon while sliding on the ice near the hotel of John A. Fischer on Ahele street.

With some other boys young Rice was sliding on the ice when it gave way with him, plunging him into the icy water. The other youths tried to save him by shoving a sled to him but he was unable to grasp it and sank. While the other boys went for a rope or pole to aid in getting Rice out of the water and when they returned the lad had gone down for the last time.

The drowning occurred about 4:30 o'clock, and soon after the alarm was given and the work of recovering the body started but it was not found until after 8 o'clock that evening when it was turned over to Stock & Cordts.

Besides his parents, he is survived by a sister, Dolores, and three brothers, Maurice, Jr., Adrian and John.

No C. E. Service. The Christian Endeavor Society of the Fair Street Reformed Church will not have a service Sunday evening, as there will be a special vesper service at 5 o'clock.

the salary account of the judge of children's court. Adopted.

Supervisor Snyder offered a resolution that there be appropriated $150 to be paid from the funds in the hands of the county treasurer, not otherwise provided for, for the paying of bounties on wild cats and bob cats and credited to the fund to be raised for the paying of bounties. Adopted.

Supervisor Conklin asked "as a point of information" what is a bob cat? and Supervisor Edward Young said it was "an animal called a catamount that will jump on your back without warning should you happen to go by where one is lurking." Supervisor Conklin then said that he was satisfied with the explanation as Supervisor Parlan has told him that it was an animal that "leapt" at you out of a tree. The resolution was adopted.

On motion of Supervisor Shuttle the board of supervisors' session of the children's court for the months of November and December, and credited by the county treasurer to 1922 adjourned sine die.

COUNTY FATHERS ADJOURN SINE DIE

Undertakers Want More Pay For Coroner's Cases—"Bob Cats" Laid—Defendants—Supervisors Transact Much Business.

After taking action on the important matters the Ulster County board of supervisors, Friday evening, finished the annual session of 1922 and adjourned sine die.

The first matter to come up was the reading of a communication from Philip Elting, chairman of the Republican county committee, and one from James Jenkins, chairman of the Democratic county committee, certifying respectively the name of George B. Trumpbour, Republican, of Saugerties, and John A. Nock, Democrat, of Kingston, as members of the Ulster county board of elections for two years, they having been recommended by a majority of the members of such committees, as the election law provides. The recommendations for appointment were accepted and acknowledged and ordered spread upon the minutes.

A petition signed by twenty funeral directors of the county was read requesting that the amount of compensation for burial of coroner's cases be increased from $40 to $75, following the example of Dutchess and other counties. Received and filed.

A communication signed by 71 taxpayers of the town of Shawangunk was read stating that public interest demanded the construction of Highway 40 in that town, beginning near the village of Pine Bush and running through New Prospect and Walker Valley to the town line between Shawangunk and Wawarsing. Received and filed.

The report of an inspector from the State Department of Farms and Markets of the Ulster county farm was received. It was recommended that the herd of cattle on the farm be tuberculosis tested and that the barns be resingled. The general condition of the farm and buildings was reported to be excellent. Filed.

The acts to create a fire district in the town of Woodstock, to authorize the town of Shandaken to borrow money for highway improvement, to authorize the county of Ulster to issue bonds in $5,000 to pay county's share of cost of construction of Rosendale village state road and of the Highland-New Paltz county highway; also the act to pay a bounty of $5 on wild cat and bob cats killed in the county, were placed on the order of third reading and all were passed.

Supervisor Snyder offered a resolution that there be appropriated from funds in the hands of the county treasurer, not otherwise provided for, the sum of $125 for the paying of the salary of the judge of the children's court for the months of November and December, and credited by the county treasurer to 1922 adjourned sine die.

TEACHERS ASK FOR SALARY INCREASE

Make Request to Board of Education Now So That Next Budget May Be Sufficiently Considered.

A meeting of the board of education was held at the high school last evening at which time a delegation of about fifty teachers appeared before the board and asked for an increase in their salaries at the beginning of the next school year which would bring the salaries of the teachers who had taught fifteen years up to the maximum salary which is $1,400. All of the teachers who appeared and asked the request have taught for a period of fifteen years or more.

In a brief statement of their case they said that all teachers who were doing efficient work after fifteen years service were entitled to the maximum salary and requested the board to consider that fact when they made up the next budget. The teachers are at present working under contracts signed for the present year, but as they had been told once before that they had made application too late to the board and after the budget had been made up, they appeared before the board Friday evening in order to be on time this year. They asked that in making contracts for the next year which begins in September, 1923, they be allowed the maximum salary and that provisions be made for such salaries in the making up of the next budget.

A teacher is retired upon the average pay for her last five years salary and thus the teachers held, it would be necessary for teachers now teaching in the schools and who are about ready to retire to teach for five years after the granting of the maximum salary if they were to retire with a pension of $700 a year. At the conclusion of the remarks, Trustee Brinnier moved that the prayer of the petitioners be granted and such increases as are due the teachers be given. The motion of Trustee Brinnier was amended by Trustee Van Wageningen to the effect that the matter be referred to the teachers committee, which in the past has made certain recommendations that were adopted by the board as a whole.

A discussion followed among the members of the board as to what the effect would be if the matter was referred to the teachers' committee to act upon. Mr. Brinnier stating that this was simply a means of killing the matter, and he asked that the members of the board express their opinions as to whether the increase might be granted. The members of the board did not express their opinion and Mr. Brinnier then stated that he wished it known now that he was in favor of the increase. He probably would be away at the time the matter comes up at the March meeting.

Trustee Betz asked that if the matter be referred to the teachers' committee, would it come up before the whole board for action, and was informed that the committee suggested and the board as a whole acted upon the suggestions of the committee.

The amendment of Mr. Van Wageningen was then out and resulted in six voting for the amendment and one, Mr. Brinnier, against. The matter was referred to the teachers' committee.

Miss N. W. Hewitt, one of the teachers who spoke, stated that as she would be absent at the time the matter would come up before the board, she wanted to appear now and ask that the board act favorably on the matter. She will be in Egypt. She stated that on another occasion the board had stated that the request came too late, so this was the reason the teachers were appearing at this time, in order to be early enough.

A communication was received from the New York Telephone Company thanking the board for the use of the high school auditorium a few weeks ago for the showing of the telephone film.

A request was received from the Kingston High School basketball management requesting the board to allow dancing to be held in the gym following the basketball games on the evenings of January 5, February 2 and February 21. The request was granted and President Flemming appointed the following committees to act as chaperones: January 5, Trustees Herbert and Van Wageningen; February 2, Trustees Kearney and Flemming; February 21, Trustees Gill and Beeres.

A communication was also received from Prof. Lewis and Mr. Herman asking for 15 drawing tables to be used in the machine shop for mechanical drawing purposes. On motion of Trustee Van Wageningen authority was given to purchase material for the tables and have the students make them under the direction of Mr. Elmendorf.

Trustee Van Wageningen, for the finance committee, offered the pay roll for December, amounting to $20,153 and bills were audited for the month amounting to $3,901.09. The board then adjourned.

The biggest Christmas mail in the history of Kingston's post office department has been handled this year. On Thursday 51,000 pieces of first class mail passed through the cancellation machine, which was the record number up to that day. This record, however, was exceeded on Friday, when 54,500 pieces of mail were handled.

The former record was that of last year when 46,000 pieces of first class mail passed through the cancellation machine at the local department. Not only was the Christmas mail the largest in Kingston's history, but all over the country records were broken.

To give a slight idea of the number of collections made by the mail carriers, one carrier and his assistant on Friday collected and brought to the post office 4,100 pieces of first class mail.

While there will be no work Sunday at the local post office, Postmaster DeWitt stated today that in order that every Christmas gift may be delivered in Kingston by Christmas night that the carriers will work all that day delivering the Christmas packages to Kingston residents.

The has been no delay in handling the Christmas rush at the local post office and Postmaster DeWitt is greatly pleased with the efficient work accomplished by the regular force and the additional help engaged during the holiday rush. Packages received have almost invariably been delivered the same day they reached the post office.

MRS. PFROMMER GIVEN $3,500

The action of Anna C. Pfrommer against Joseph Pfrommer, in which the jury, at the October term of the supreme court, decided that she was entitled to a return of her interest of the real estate on Brewster street, has been settled, Pfrommer giving her $3,500 and all of the household furniture. William D. and William D. Brinnier, Jr., were the attorneys for Mrs. Pfrommer.

TROJANS HERE XMAS AFTERNOON

Christmas afternoon, at 3 o'clock local fandom will witness a contest at the local armory court between the Morgenweck clan and the Troy State Leaguers. Jimmy Davey comes to this city on this occasion not as a referee, but as a manager. He now has the Troy club in hand and will show his ability as a director for the first time on the local court. Troy is third in league standing and has a number of star players to build a good team upon. Just who will be in the upstarters lineup remains to be seen. The referee for the contest was not announced. The game is scheduled to start at 3 o'clock with dancing following until 5:30.

AN AUTO COLLISION ON WASHINGTON AVE. VIADUCT

Cats Came Together There Friday—Caught in Deep Rut.

Friday while George Schantz and wife were driving their Hupmobile over the Washington avenue viaduct they collided head-on with a Ford sedan driven by H. C. Segeiken of Phoenixia. Both cars were somewhat damaged but no one hurt. There is said to be a deep rut in the snow and ice on the roadway over the viaduct and when an auto gets in the rut it is impossible to get out of it. This was what caused the accident.

"PEACE ON EARTH" FOR FIRST IN NINE YEARS

By Telegraph to The Freeman. London, Dec. 23.—Monday will be the first Christmas in nine years when war was not being waged in some part of the world. For four years the Great War waged over Christmas tide. Then came the war in Russia against the Bolsheviks and still later the war between Greece and Turkey.

Christmas Communion. St. James's Methodist Church will celebrate Christmas Day with an early communion service. This will be at seven o'clock. This service has been very popular for many years. Members of other churches have been in the habit of attending, and they have been most welcome. There will be special music at both services on Sunday. Miss Frances Keeney, harp soloist, will assist at both services.

"Underella's Christmas Party." A Christmas casta given by the children of the Wurts Street Baptist Church, will be held next Wednesday. The title is "Underella's Christmas Party." Everyone is to bring something which will be given to the Industrial Home.

P. O. SITE IS NOT DECIDED ON

The location of the Rondout station of the post office is still up in the air and no location has been definitely decided upon as yet by the post office department at Washington. When there was asked bids for proposed sites the owner of the Mansion House submitted a bid for the use of the store facing on Broadway. Later he made a reduced offer for the use of a store facing on West Strand.

This latter location does not meet with the approval of a majority of the down town residents or of Postmaster DeWitt. The lease on the present location does not expire until April and it is expected that long before that time the new site will be announced.

Van Slyke & Horton Give Candy. Friday at the Van Slyke and Horton Cigar factory in this city, the local manager addressed the employees and extended to them the best wishes of the season. Each employee was presented with a pound box of candy and great joy was manifest at this impromptu meeting. Employees at company's factories at Albany, Catskill and Poughkeepsie were also remembered.

Dance at Mann's Hall. The usual Saturday night dance will be held this evening at Mann's Hall on lower Broadway.

WELCOME HOLIDAY WITH VIOLENCE

By Telegraph to The Freeman. Dublin, Dec. 23.—The holiday season in Ireland was ushered in today with a terrific wave of violence. This city has been in panic for nearly 24 hours with bomb throwing and revolver fusillades.

Free State government offices and outposts were attacked time after time throughout the night. The attacking republican irregulars adopted tactics of North American Indian fighters, firing from cover and then taking flight.

Large forces of Free State troops were on patrol duty but the attacks were so scattered that the Free State had difficulty in coping with the irregulars.

The civilian population was thrown into terror. The violence extended from Dublin to Cork. Eight civilians in Cork were wounded when a bomb was thrown at a military lorry.

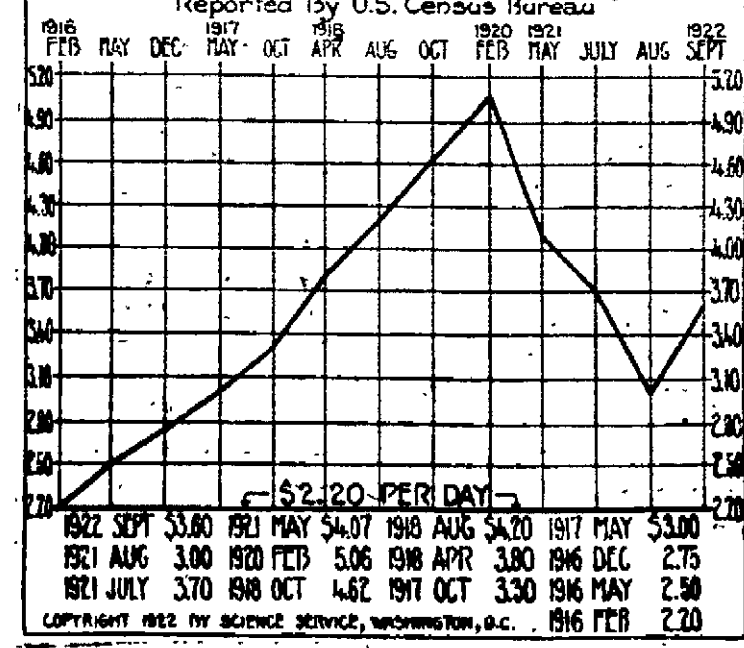

Two Pass Bar Examinations.

Among the students who successfully passed the October state bar examinations, according to an announcement made by the board of law examiners Friday, are the following from this city and vicinity: Clyde E. Gardner, Saugerties; Joseph E. Hazen, Kingston.

FAIRY QUEEN'S THOUGHTS

"I really don't know," said the Fairy Queen, "which of Mother Nature's creatures I admire the most."

"They are all pretty wonderful in one way or another."

"Yes, it is hard to make up one's mind."

The Fairy Queen and the Fairies were all at Witty Witch's, where they had been invited to a big banquet. Others were coming later on, but Witty Witch had said that any who could come early would be more than welcome.

"Of course I mean," she said, "that you will be so very, very welcome. I think welcome is a word which speaks for itself as a word should do."

"For no word to me has more of a welcome sound than has welcome!"

"But I would be delighted if any could come early."

It so happened that the Fairy Queen and the Fairies were able to arrive ahead of the banquet time.

Witty Witch had everything in readiness for the banquet except a few last-minute things, and they had all asked the Fairy Queen to tell the ones she considered most wonderful of all in Mother Nature's marvelous family.

"Sometimes," said the Fairy Queen, "I think butterflies are as wonderful as any of her children."

"Of course all insects must be little grubs or worms and must be tiny and of little consequence before they become full-fledged insects."

"But the butterfly has so many changes. Take the Common Eastern Swallowtail Butterfly, for example, that splendid family with their handsome dark decorated wings and the little tail at the end of either wing."

"First there is a little bit of an egg and then a tiny caterpillar."

"And then the caterpillar molts twice. Next he turns into a chrysalis and hangs by a silken thread to a twig while getting ready for his next big change."

"Then he will come out as the butterfly—but first he will rest after he comes out before spreading forth to the glories of the world."

"The mothers know enough to lay their eggs by leaves upon which the little caterpillars can later feed."

"The little caterpillar eats until he has eaten enough, then he rests and molts and eats again."

"When he is frightened he knows that his family have little kinds of horns from which they can send forth a very unpleasant odor, and that this is a means of protection. It is when he is frightened or nervous that he does this."

"And then it is so amazing to think of the way the caterpillar attaches himself to a twig by the silken threads. In this chrysalis state he becomes nothing but a kind of a jelly and yet slowly he is becoming a butterfly."

"And when he becomes a butterfly he is so magnificent—so full of color and glory and beauty. Then it is that he meets a lovely Miss Butterfly and asks her to become his mate and they choose a beautiful flower for the spot where the wedding will take place."

"And they sip of the sweetness of flowers for their wedding feast."

"Oh, yes," the Fairy Queen said, "I think I would say that butterflies to me are the most wonderful of Mother Nature's creatures."

"There are others I love. I'm very fond of the dear little house wren and of the way he comes up north ahead in the spring to get everything in readiness for home-making, leaving the finishing touches for his mate to make."

He seems to know it will be her last touches which will make the home a cozy place."

"I love his cheery singing, too."

"Vegetables always seem to be prize children of Mother Nature, giving us of their help to make us strong. And I never see string-beans without wondering, 'Where is a hoe?'"

"They do seem to demand hoeing without saying a word about it. They quite make me smile."

"The animals who have gone to sleep for the winter are so interesting, but I do believe the butterfly who was once nothing but a little, ugly, squirming worm is the most wonderful of all."

Then it was time to finish the last few things for the banquet, but everyone said they had loved hearing the Fairy Queen's thoughts.

IN ONION THERE'S STRENGTH

The great objection which we have to the onion is its odor, for it belongs to the lily family. Those who pride themselves upon their pedigree will have more tolerance for the humble bulb when they remember it is close cousin to the beautiful Easter lily as well as the calla and others.

As a vegetable the onion may be served in various ways—as a seasoning for dishes it has no equal. A most attractive looking and at the same time wholesome dish is: Stuffed Baked Onions.—Choose large-sized, uniform, sound onions. Peel them and cook until soft enough to cut out the centers. Chop them and reserve for other dishes or use to mix with the filling to go back into the cavity. Highly seasoned sausage meat is well liked for filling, so are nuts and bread crumbs, also finely chopped green peppers which have been parboiled. There are any number of fillings which will add variety to this dish. Place in a baking dish, baste with stock or butter and water while cooking; when the onions are soft, but not mushy, sprinkle with buttered crumbs, brown under the gas flame and serve at once as a garnish to a platter of pork chops, or if stuffed with meat or nuts they will make the main dish.

To obtain onion juice to be used where the vegetable itself is not cared for, cut a slice from the end and turn the cut surface back and forth on the grater near the groove; the juice will run down the groove, adding the delicate flavor as desired.

Onion Sandwiches.—Chop fine a slice of Bermuda onion, mix with salt, pepper, a little dry mustard and spread on buttered bread.

Onion Relish.—Take one large grated onion, one-half cupful of celery; grind the celery, one teaspoonful of mustard, ten drops of tobacco sauce, one teaspoonful each of salt and celery seed, the yolks of four eggs well beaten and blended with the salt and mustard, two tablespoonfuls of olive oil, twenty capers, one-fourth of a cupful of vinegar. Serve with fish or game—fine with venison.

Mirages of the North.

Similar in origin to the mirage of the desert are the mock suns of the Arctic circle. As the long winter night of the polar region waxes, once every 24 hours a light glow is seen at some point on the horizon. Often accompanying this glow is seen the phenomenon of the mock suns. Up in the heavens as many as five of these spectral orbs have been seen at once. Invariably they are all connected in a geometric figure, the suns seemingly being bound together with circles and arcs of light. Often when only one appears it is mistaken for the real sun, and natives rejoice at the early end of the long winter night only to be disappointed as the image disappears. The explanation of the phenomenon is given by physicists as refraction and reflection of light from the real sun below the horizon on the mists in the upper atmosphere.

ABOLISHING SANTA CLAUS.

The radicals of the French Revolution abolished Sunday, but after a time they re-enacted it, having learned that their very bodies imperatively required a day of rest even if their minds could continue to function without a day for the contemplation of something above and beyond mere gross material things. Now we hear that the Soviets of Russia have abolished or are trying to abolish Santa Claus, but Russian children and their sympathetic parents will force the return of the good fairy of Christmas.

According to a Moscow dispatch, by order of the Communist League, Russian children will be told "right out in public" this Christmas that Santa Claus is "a bourgeois delusion." A program has been prepared to "counteract" the "medieval, deleterious and undesirable influence." Not only will there be torchlight processions through the snow-covered streets "bearing banners inveighing against religion and the mythical gift bearer" but "no angels will be permitted on Christmas trees," there "shall be no in" "ance of a religious cult whatsoever" and instead there will be "dramas and masquerades" "to give the children a holiday without evil influences." Even the world will be glad that, even if the old mid-winter, the Soviets "that they had better not go to bed and that Russian children, when depressed by a consciousness of irreparable loss will at least have a holiday and some form of gratification."

No revel determined to smash the good fairy of Christmas, the self-sufficient iconoclasts in Russia or elsewhere may be, they will eventually abandon their self-appointed and impossible task, realizing that they might as well attempt to fight against the stars in their courses. They will be unable to prevail against parental perception of childhood's needs, the magic of the story book, and the delighted whisperings among the little folk themselves. Belief in good fairy is as positive a need of childhood as belief in Divine oversight is of manhood, and the completeness of the first is a useful preparation for the second. There is no harmful shock when inquiring children are told that Santa Claus is an intermediary sent by the Giver of all things, whose appearance on earth is celebrated on Christmas day, or later when they learn that this intermediary really takes the form of a loving parent, youthful gratitude still being inspired. Even as a matter of education and training the Christmas fairy story and fairy tales in general are of great use in stimulating the developing faculty of the imagination, a process demanding much of the wonderful and fascinatingly mysterious.

A "well known actress of yesterday" is quoted as saying that chorus girls of today read Lamb and Shakespeare instead of spending their time thinking of the boys. Of course this gratifying news is not to be taken to mean that "the boys" have absolutely no chance against such rivals as the two literary gentlemen named.

One American dollar can buy twenty million Russian rubles, but naturally there are few purchasers. How Trotsky could have employed such waste paper to build up "the finest army in the world" is incomprehensible, yet, according to late reports of military experts, he has succeeded in doing no less.

Speaking for his political group, Senator La Follette says "we stand for taking control of the government away from special interests and placing it in the hands of the people, as the founders of the nation intended." Probably the founders of the nation would not have liked to see the government in the control of either the interests of La Follette.

The publication of the names of many Chicago Ku Kluxers is said to have checked the growth of the organization in that city, and now a Chicago man has offered to help the anti-Klux movement in New York city by revealing the names of ten thousand members residing there. Perhaps there is good reason for the opinion of some that the best way to check the growth of the Klan is to ignore it and thus stop giving it so much publicity. Instead of making the expected killing by its exposures, the New York World doubtless brought the Klan new members by the thousands.

The League of Nations has been invoked by desperate diplomats to settle the vexed and tragic question of racial minorities in the Turkish dominions. The task bristles with difficulties, but the League will have an advantage in Turkey's confessed desire to be admitted into the respectable company of that body.

2. Do they still get eider down from duck's nests, and how much down will a duck give at a time?
3. Are any fishes nocturnal?

Answers in Tuesday's Nature Notes.

Answers to Previous Questions.

1. How did cod-fish get their name?

Some writers go into a rather indirect explanation to connect "cod" with the Latin name of Gadus, which means a rod or stick. The most plausible suggestion we know comes from Thoreau's book, Cape Cod, in which he says "cod" comes probably from the Saxon "codde," meaning a case containing seeds. (The old-fashioned "pease-cod" is an example of this use.) The fish, Thoreau thinks, might have acquired the name from the resemblance of its body to a codde or pod, or from the amount of spawn the cod contains, which might suggest a pod full of seed.

2. Do vegetable eating animals ever consume their young? I ask because our young rabbits suddenly disappeared.

Animal parents often kill their own young, but not to eat them. The object is to dispose of them when apparently some foe threatens. In the case of rabbits, it is more likely a roving cat killed and ate the babies. Rat parents might actually eat the young they had killed.

3. How big is the sparrow hawk, and does it live on sparrows?

About 10 to 11 inches, smallest of our hawks. It kills various small birds, but also eats quantities of beetles or similar insects of any size, and mice. Considered very beneficial, and should be protected, as the vermin it eats more than balance the bird part of its diet.

WHY

Condensation of Moisture Results in Fog

What is fog? The average person would say it is low clouds resting on the earth's surface. This is quite true, but the question is usually dropped at this point and little thought is given to why these clouds form so much nearer the ground at some times than at others.

As the weather bureau explains it, both fog and clouds are formed when condensation of moisture takes place in the atmosphere. Fog is composed of minute particles of visible vapor. They were once believed to be hollow spheres, but science now declares that each individual drop is a solid body of water enveloping a particle of dust in the air and supported by the upward tendency of air currents and the resistance of atmosphere to the falling of minute spherical particles. The diameter of the smallest visible particles of fog has been estimated to be 1-180 of an inch.

Fogs are seldom more than 1500 feet in depth, and sometimes they only extend 20 to 30 feet above the ground. They have been known to form in a stratum to only the height of a man.

In accordance with the conditions under which fogs develop they are divided into two general classes "radiation fogs" and "advection fogs." The former kind, which may also be designated as "land fogs" and "summer fogs," are likely to occur along streams and rivers and in mountain valleys during any clear, still night in summer and fall. In such regions during a warm, calm day, considerable water becomes evaporated into the lower atmosphere, where, if the weather remains calm, a large portion of it lingers after sundown. This moist air, together with the heat from the earth at night is cooled rapidly by radiation into the clear sky, and they often cool to a degree below the dew point, which condenses the moisture into a visible vapor known as fog—Indianapolis Star.

FOUND BALLAST LOST WEIGHT

How Ship Captain Discovered Properties of What Are Known as the "Barking Sands."

Fifteen miles from Waiman, Kauai, where Captain Cook first landed on Hawaiian soil, are a line of windswept sand hills called the Barking Sands. When dry, the wind on the sands makes them rustle like silk; to stamp on them brings forth different cadences; while to slide down them produces sounds like a dog barking.

For many years the problem of this phenomenon remained unsolved until the captain of a sailing vessel, one day, used the sand for ballast. Sailing out to sea, his ship became unmanned, able against the wind. On examination, the captain found that his ballast had greatly reduced in weight. Further examination revealed the presence of minute cavities in the sand granules.

The captain had filled his ship's hold with water-soaked sand. When the moisture evaporated, nothing was left but the hollow grains, which were too light for ballast.

The injection and ejection of air into and out of the cavities are supposed to produce the curious sounds.

Why Heat Turns Iron Red.

Probably more than one small boy has "stumped" his father by asking him what makes iron turn red when it is heated sufficiently. The reason is simpler than most fathers suspect.

Heat, if there is enough of it, always produces light. The heat of the sun surpasses all calculation and conjecture. It is the fire inside the glass globe heated to incandescence, which gives the electric light. As iron absorbs heat it first becomes a dull, brownish red. Then it becomes a bright red and finally, as it is heated to the melting point, it becomes a white so dazzling that it inflicts pain on the eye looking at it. The varying shades of color are produced by the varying heat—Cleveland News-Leader.

Why Ship Is Feminine.

A ship is invariably spoken of as of the feminine gender. This is traced to the ancient Greeks, who called all ships feminine names out of respect to Athene, goddess of the sea. Friday is believed to be an unlucky day by those who are superstitious. It is derived from the fact it was the day of Christ's crucifixion, as well as the one on which Adam and Eve ate the forbidden fruit. Few, perhaps, are aware why a weathercock is frequently attached to a church steeple. This is believed to remind people of Peter's denial of Christ. It is a common belief that peacock's feathers are unlucky. This is due to the tradition that the bird opened the gate of paradise to the serpent.—Exchange

How Watches Are Affected.

A strange phenomenon, due, according to scientific authorities, to still unexplained magnetic influences, has for a whole month been observed daily in London. Watches and chronometers have been stopping suddenly. It has been useless to take them to the watchmaker, who could not detect the trouble nor remedy it.

After the lapse of an hour or two, however, the watches begin going again, and all that is needed is to set them at the right hour.

Why He Was Jovial.

"Hoorny!" exclaimed Mr. Crosscut. "We're going to have a long, hard blizzard!"

"Why should that cause you to rejoice?" inquired his wife.

"Cook can't possibly leave till it's over."

Truly a Land of Ice.

Taste and smell determine good coffee. The thing is to get a coffee that tastes as good in the cup as it smells in the roasted berry. Reliance Coffee does that very thing.

No other coffee has this peculiar taste-smell characteristic. You find it in Reliance, because we mellow and roast it by an old-time special process.

Customers who use Reliance tell us they could identify it blindfolded by the rich bodied aroma.

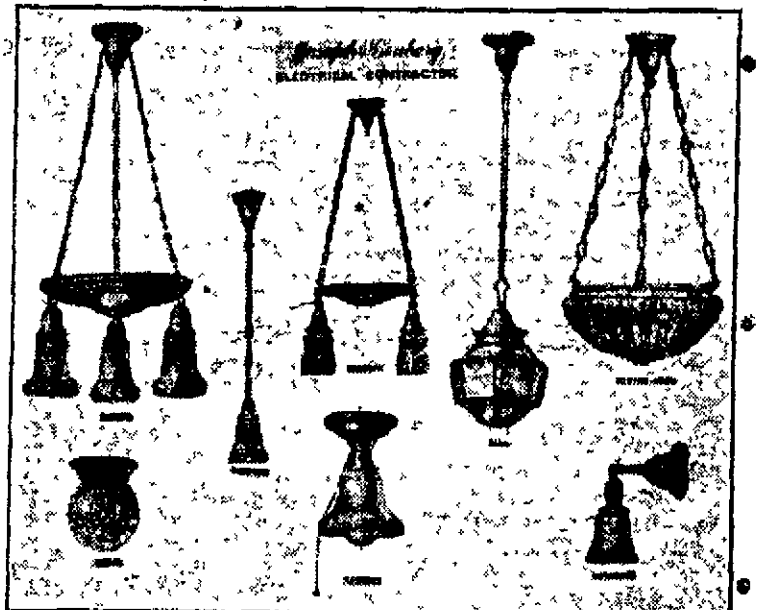

You can rely on your sense of smell in selecting Reliance Coffee because that appetite-creating-odor is bound to linger until you pour out the last drop.

CHRISTMAS AT ST. PETER'S CHURCH

In preparation for the feast of the Nativity of Our Lord, confessions will be heard on Saturday afternoon and evening and again on Sunday evening beginning at 7:30. No confessions will be heard Sunday afternoon. Christmas will begin with the solemn midnight Mass, celebrated by the pastor, the Rev. John P. Neumann, assisted by the Rev. Fathers John C. de Krom and Joseph D. Ostermann as deacon and subdeacon respectively. On this occasion it is expected that as many of the parishioners as can do so will receive holy communion. The morning Masses will follow the usual schedule, the first at 7, the children's Mass at 9 o'clock, at which the Christmas carols will be chanted.

The solemn parochial Mass will be sung at 10:30 a. m., after which there will be solemn benediction of the Blessed Sacrament and Te Deum. There will be no devotion Christmas night. The musical program for Christmas prepared by St. Peter's choir under the direction of Prof. John B. Schwalbach is as follows:

Curious Plant Growth.
Experiments conducted under the auspices of experts from the Department of Agriculture, seem to prove that the flowering and fruiting of plants depend not upon temperature alone but also upon the length of the day. By artificially lengthening or shortening its day, a grower may, it is said, "deceive a plant into thinking" it is spring or autumn, and it will bear its flowers, fruit and seed accordingly, no matter what the time of the year.

Thus, if violet plants are covered with light-proof boxes in the summer during the extra hours of daylight, they will, it is contended, bloom again just as the short days of spring found them doing. The new theory is expected to have important results in floriculture and crop yield.

How Carmen Sylva Got Her Name.
Among the many interesting people with whom Ex-Ambassador Straus was associated in his long diplomatic career was the beautiful queen of Rumania, who is known so widely under her pen name of Carmen Sylva. The woods always appealed to her, so when she began to publish her work at the age of thirty-five, she decided to take the Latin name for "woods." That gave her "Sylva." To associate with the woods she wanted the word for "bird," but "Avis" did not suit her, so she took "Carmen," or "song" instead.

CHRISTMAS PLAY AT HIGH SCHOOL

A short but very interesting program was given at the high school Friday afternoon. The glee club opened the exercises with the singing of a Christmas carol. The next number was a sketch on Christmas its origin and the significance of the many customs of its observance, excellently given by Miss Charlotte Russell. The short play, "When the Chimes Rang," was the main part of the program.

The scene of the play, "When the Chimes Rang," at the opening, is the fireside of a humble home, with two brothers, Holgar and Steen (Howard DeWitt and Arnold Smith) talking of the great time at the cathedral in the city that night. The brothers see from their windows an old woman walking through the snow, bending over in almost complete exhaustion. Their remarks of pity are interrupted by the entrance of their Uncle Burtell (Allan Pöyley). He tells them more of the celebration at the cathedral, how the king will be there. The two brothers decide to go, but Steen objects that they have nothing to offer to the Christ child upon the altar. Holgar produces a few pennies that he had earned through the year by picking up wood and selling it. They are about to leave when Holgar discovers that the old beggar woman (Edna Spikes) whom they had seen from the window had entered the house and seated herself by the fire. The other two depart for the town, but Holgar stays at home to care for the old woman, giving her food and keeping the fire burning brightly. As they sit there, the sound of the music from the cathedral comes to their ears. Holgar shows a longing for being at the celebration, to hear the wonderful chimes ring. His uncle had told him that the chimes had never been rung since the tower in which they were had been built. They could not be rung by swinging them, but only would ring when a perfect gift would be laid upon the altar at Christmas time. Holgar longs to see the perfect gift laid on the altar and hear their sweet tones. Suddenly, the side of the room opens before him, and he sees the priest (Robert Hart) praying before the altar. A courier offers money, but no sound was heard of the bells. Then comes Beauty (Genevieve Bowen) offering jewels, followed by Youth who offers flowers. Knowledge (Kenneth Greene) lays his book on the altar, but all is in vain. Finally the king himself steps forward and gives the priest his crown, but still no sound can be heard. Holgar expresses his desire to lay his pennies on the altar, but is afraid. The old woman assures him that his gift is acceptable, so Holgar goes forward. No more had the priest raised Holgar's offering to the heavens than the chimes ring out in a glorious hymn, and an angel (Helen Yost) appears, bringing the message of the Christmas spirit to those assembled before the altar.

The entire play was very well presented, each individual doing his best. All the actors and stage helpers are members of the Dramatic Club and the coaches the club's advisors. The scenery was also built by members of this club.

The program was concluded by the singing of another Christmas carol by the glee club.

CURRENT OFFERINGS AT THE THEATERS

"Fascination" showing at Keene's for the last time tonight gives photoplay lovers a story that contains all the elements required of a picture: romance, action, thrills, handsome men, beautiful women with a display of gowns that fairly dazzle the eye. For Christmas Day Keene's attraction is "Woman's Hate" starring Alice Lake. A drama of love and politics with intense heart interest and a story that grips and means something. The comedy is "The Rainmaker" with Lloyd Hamilton.

Glady's Walton the bewitching little flapper, in "The Laverne Bath Lady" is showing at the Auditorium tonight, also a thrilling Country comedy and the latest news. For Christmas the Auditorium offers a story of domestic life that will appeal to every man, woman and boy or girl who ever have been, will be, or ought to be married. Leah Baird in "Don't Doubt Your Wife" Larry Seamon in the comedy scream "The Star Boarder" is the added feature.

Today is your last chance to see the great vaudeville bill that has been offered during the past two days at the Orpheum. The picture is Charles (Buck) Jones in "Rough Shod." An extraordinary holiday bill is offered for Christmas Day, Tuesday and Wednesday. The picture for Monday and Tuesday is Gloria Swanson in her latest Paramount in "The Impossible Mrs. Bellevue" in conjunction with four big vaudeville acts.

Lantern Festival Still Survives.

In Florence there still survives, on the evening of September 7, some trace of the old festival of lanterns. This fête is entirely peculiar to Florence and the near neighborhood; and the lanterns with which it is traditionally celebrated are also a local specialty and are produced not in factories, but by the people themselves, says the Christian Science Monitor. Tissue paper of various colors is employed, this being stretched on strips of card or thin wood and so bent that the lantern takes the shape of a basket, globe, boat, bell or any other form desired. The different sides or quarters are cut from different colored papers, and the whole is trimmed round the edges and angles with long bamboo strips, also gaily tricked out with twisted fringes of cut paper.

A Touching Message.

America's message to England.
U. O. U. S. $—

Some time a grouch will forget himself long enough to admire the beautiful in nature. But if he does he feels like apologizing for it.

An appropriate salutation on raising a glass of hooch to one's lips would be, "Here's lookin' at you—for the last time."

Women may be slaves to fashion but their burdens are light.

"You don't call me cutie any more."
"No, girlie, that word is too reminiscent of life in the trenches," he replied.

What is sadder than a poor imitation of being happy.

Taught At Home.
Teacher—James, who was the greatest man in the world?
James—Mamma's first husband.

The Good Girl.
My mother says I must be good—
I am;
The best girl in the neighborhood—
I am;

She says I must be neat and trim as well as modest, prudish, prim, as proper as a gospel hymn—
I am;
She says I must behave myself—
I do;

Leave bad books resting on the shelf—
I do;
Eschew short skirts, avoid the dance.
Abhor the naughty, dirty glance, and run from everything in pants—
I do.

I mustn't do a thing amiss—
I don't.
I mustn't spoon, hold hands or kiss—
I don't.
And since I'm such a precious one and from all wickedness I run, You may not think I have much fun—
I don't.

Hoping for the best won't bring the best. Only a careful study of every detail that figures in the result will bring success.

The sight of poor folks touches us. As misery always should; But if it doesn't touch our purse, It doesn't do much good!

Is There Anything New?

There is a process of letting air into the lungs by incision from the outside, much used in serious cases of pneumonia, and called by physicians "artificial pneumothorax." It is a very modern treatment, but Dr. A. K. Krause calls attention to the fact that Hippocrates 1,500 years ago described it in the following words: "If this affection results from a wound or, as sometimes happens, from an incision for empyema, one should attach a pipe to a bladder, fill the bladder with air and send the air into the interior of the chest. And one should insert a solid pewter sound and push it forward. It is by this method that you will get the very best results."

LEGG'S MILLS CLAIM TRIED

Kingston Furnishes Great Variety in Its Case, Before the Courts—Expert Miller's Give Testimony.

It is doubtful whether anywhere in the United States so unusual a combination of law suits was conducted at the same time as in Kingston during the present week.

Before Judge Staley and a jury at the court house, was tried a case involving the sale of German bonds and the value of German marks.

Before the Ashokan reservoir commission, composed of William H. Murray, Joseph J. McGrath and Andrew Sheridan, at the same time was tried the claim of Margaret Kerr, Walter P. Crane and Peter K. Gallagher, the owners of Legg's Mills for the loss sustained by reason of the diminished flow of the Esopus in consequence of the construction of the Ashokan dam and the diversion of the waters of that stream through the aqueduct to the city of New York. Judge Clearwater, who represented the proprietors of Legg's Mills, in opening the case stated that the original grant was by James II. of England to the trustees of the corporation and commonality of Kingston, and he introduced a series of deeds beginning with one from those trustees, dated February 20, 1868, two hundred and thirty-four years ago, following it up with various other deeds to the present time. In this chain of title it appears that a grist mill has been operated upon the present site of Legg's Mills for over two hundred years.

In support of the claim of the present owners the judge called Robert Gallagher, ex-Sheriff Philip Schantz, Anthony Lawatsch and Cornelius DuMond. Mr. Gallagher testified as to the condition of the property. He said that the power was supplied by a turbine operated by falling water which propelled two sets of mill stones; that one set ground wheat and rye and the other coarse grain, such as corn and buckwheat; that formerly the Esopus supplied sufficient water to operate the mill day and night, but latterly since the diversion of the stream by the city of New York it was only occasionally and in case of high water in the stream that the mill could be operated at all.

Ex-Sheriff Schantz testified that he had been a miller all his life. He operated two mills at Highland, and one at Marlborough; that he was thoroughly familiar with Legg's Mills and with the Esopus, before and after the construction of the Ashokan dam; that in his opinion the value of the Legg's Mills property before the construction of that dam was $40,000. That its present value was almost negligible, not to exceed two or three thousand dollars.

Anthony Lawatsch testified that he had run various grist mills in Ulster county, and formerly two at Wilbur, one now at Dashville Falls. He had operated Legg's Mills once for four years, once for six years. That before the stream was diverted by the city he could run two sets of stones day and night, but now the mill only could be operated when the water was high or at a flood. The property was worth, in his opinion, $40,000 before its diversion by New York, and he agreed with ex-Sheriff Schantz that at present its value was slight. Cornelius DuMond testified that for forty years he had owned property along the banks of the Esopus; that for eighteen years he carried his grain to Legg's Mills to be ground; that before the construction of the Ashokan dam he would go there and have to wait hours, maybe a day to get his grain ground. Under present conditions he could not get it ground at any time.

There was much discussion as to what constituted "head" and as to horse power that could be developed on the Esopus at Legg's Mills. The further hearing of the case was adjourned to January 10. Assistant Corporation Counsel William H. Grogan represented the city.

Unreasonable Brother. Albert and Alfred were twins, but did not agree on everything. Albert was rather aggravating at times, and Alfred refused to play with him on these occasions. When asked why he refused to play with his brother, he explained it in this wise: "Oh, he's so contrary he gets on my temper."

Concerning the Ear. The smallest ears are found among the Latin races. Intellect and morality cannot be judged by the size of the ear alone, however. There is an enormous difference between the large ear of savage races and that of a cultured white man. The convolutions and angles are different.

K. H. S. QUINTET DEFEATS HUDSON

The Kingston High School basketball team made it two straight Friday night when they defeated the strong Hudson High School team at the latter's court by a 17 to 5 score. The game was one of the best defensive games that was ever staged on the Hudson court and the defense which Kingston put up throughout the entire game was something to be marvelled at. The Hudson team was not able to score one field basket until a few minutes before the end of the game when Earley succeeded in putting one in from very near the center of the court.

Burger excelled for the local team dropping in two baskets from the field and nine from the penalty line making thirteen points in all. All of the eight men who made the trip from this city were given an opportunity to play. Each player showed some excellent floor work which speaks well for the future of the local aggregation. The locale also showed a decidedly improved brand of pass work from that which they displayed on the local court last week.

This was the first time in a number of years that Kingston High School has defeated Hudson on their home court which speaks well for Coach Rutey and his men.
